

Ambu CEO exercises share options

On 25 February 2019, Ambu CEO Lars Marcher exercised 575,000 share options at a strike price of DKK 9.33 pr. share.

According to Danish tax legislation, gains on share options are taxed as personal income with approximately 56% at the time when the options are exercised irrespective of whether the shares are held or sold. Based on the share price at the time of exercise, the tax payable is approximately DKK 46m. The gain from sale of the shares amounts to DKK 87.6m.

The share options were part of the 2013 programme where a total of 2,752,000 share options were allocated to Lars Marcher subject to the results achieved for the three financial years 2012/13 through 2014/15. The share options exercised yesterday relate to the allocation made for the financial year 2013/14 that would have expired by January 2020.
